

To “empty” eggs for decorating:

1. Use a pin or needle to make a hole in the fat end of a raw egg. Wiggle the needle around or use a nail to create a slightly larger hole. The hole should be about ¼” across, or about the size of a pencil eraser.
2. Make a hole in the opposite end of the egg. This hole can be much smaller.
3. Insert the needle into the egg to break the yolk (this makes it easier to remove the egg).
4. Use a baby’s nose aspirator, or simply your mouth, to blow into the small hole to remove the egg yolk and egg white into a large bowl.
5. When the egg has been removed from the shell, run water into the eggshell. Shake the egg well to rinse out the inside, and pour the water out.
